Resource Guide

For Indiana Educators

Policy Notification Statement

It is the policy of the Indiana Department of Education not to discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, or handicap in its programs or employment policies as required by the Indiana Civil Rights Act (I.C.22-9.1), Title VI and VII (Civil Rights Act of 1964), the Equal Pay Act of 1973, Title IX (Educational Amendments), and Section 504 (Rehabilitation Act of 1973).

Inquiries regarding compliance with Title IX may be directed to the Human Resources Director, Indiana Department of Education, Room 229, State House, Indianapolis, IN 46204-2798, or to the Director of the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, D.C; Suellen Reed, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

INTRODUCTION

Public Law 231-2001 amended the Indiana Code (IC 20-10.1-4-4.5) on “good citizenship instruction” to require schools to integrate into their curriculum “methods of conflict resolution.” This new law further directed the Indiana Department of Education to “identify and make available to school corporations models of conflict resolution instruction....” This resource guide is intended to help schools meet their responsibilities under this new law.

There are a multitude of resources for conflict resolution available. This resource guide is designed to be a condensed, easy-to-read collection of conflict resolution materials. It includes curricula, study guides, teachers’ and students’ manuals, videos and activity books. It is not intended to include every available conflict resolution program but to provide a “highlight” of some of the better-known programs. Much of the list is taken directly from the U.S. Department of Justice “Conflict Resolution Education: A Guide to Implementing Programs in Schools, Youth-Serving Organizations, and Community and Juvenile Justice Settings Program Report,” by Donna Crawford and Richard Bodine, published in 1996 by the U.S. Department of Education. The “Safe Schools, Safe Students: A Guide to Violence Prevention Strategies” by Drug Strategies (1998), and CRENet (Conflict Resolution Education Network) were also consulted.

Publication of this resource guide is not intended to constitute an endorsement of any resource or service by the Indiana Department of Education, nor is it designed to be a definitive list of conflict resolution or peer mediation models, and the exclusion of additional conflict resolution resources was not intentional. Please notify the Indiana Department of Education if there is a particular model or resource that should be included in future editions of this publication. Also, remember that the needs of an individual school may vary widely from those of another, and what works in one building may not be well suited for another. When selecting a program or curriculum, consider the needs of your students, faculty, parents, and community.

Resources are divided by grade level (elementary, secondary, and K-12). Due to the amount of materials on the specific subject, peer mediation resources are listed separately.

Every attempt has been made to ensure that material costs are accurate; however, you may find product prices will vary from the costs listed in this publication. If you have questions or comments about this collection, please contact:
